2. What are the applicant's strengths?

Leah has worked with me for two years while taking her education classes through the College of Idaho. She is very reliable, always prepared, and has a love for teaching children. She is concerned about the students and how they are doing, if they are in need of help, etc. She has the passion for teaching and it shows in her interactions with the students.

3. In what areas does the applicant need improvement?

In my experiences with Leah, I do not see that she needs improvement in any of the areas of teaching, she just needs to be able to practice the skills. By doing her student teaching and interacting with students, she will achieve that.

4. Other comments:

Leah is an outstanding person who has empathy for others. My students liked her from the moment she came to our class and she reached out to them too. She has that natural ability of a teacher, seeing who needs help, both when the student asks and doesn't ask. The cooperating teacher that she is placed with will be very lucky to have her. As I have been her mentor for the last two years, I have seen her gain much confidence. She will do well in her student teaching because of her commitment to the children and the profession.

5. Check one:

- I strongly recommend the applicant for admission.
